In light of the recent government shutdown, we want to provide clarity for those planning a trip to Grand Canyon National Park:

We are pleased to share that the park remains open and is ready to welcome visitors.

Entrance fees are not being collected during the shutdown

Some services may be limited or unavailable.

Visitor centers and monuments that have indoor access may be closed or have reduced hours.

Restrooms will be open and trash will be collected; however, service may be limited. Please be a good steward and pack out your trash when possible, and help keep restrooms clean.

To learn more about in-park services, please visit
